

A Piece Of Me.....

"Let me give you a piece of me!" - words usually told out of anguish; but for a greater purpose, let me give you a piece of Me.

There's no synonym of 'Pain' that is close enough to expressing the one in my 'heart'. Days and nights pass without sleep, it's hard to close my eyes because all I see is you- the glow in your skin, the sweet melodies of your lips singing my favorite song, the happiness and joy in your eyes. You have been the person I've been dreaming about ever since I was born, you've been part of who I am ever since we crossed paths and the sun shined so bright ever since. The stars whispered your name to me, the moon showed me a picture of us in the future, and ever since I've never seen such beauty.

There was a time where we crossed paths and held each other's hands, nothing mattered more than to keep holding tight to each other and never letting go. Everything seemed so right with you, but then I broke a promise, and you couldn't hold on any longer. You gave me another chance, but you seemed to fail to realize that I was too broken to fix what got broken along with me. Wish I could get that chance at this point, now that I've realized!

The Pain now is a result of realizing at this young age- that I might live to regret losing you, that I might not be able to reach up to you now that I've built these walls between us. The pain becomes enormous to realize that even if you tried to reach me, you might not want to go through the trouble of climbing these walls for me!

I can never stop fighting for you- after all, you are a part of who I am!
